Coping With Chaos is a story based program about emotions and behavior, designed for children and adults with autism, behavioral difficulties and/or learning difficulties.

Sam goes to different places and you must help him cope with the things that happen to him there. First you must recognize how Sam feels, then you decide what he does about it.

Coping With Chaos is best used as a tool for discussion about emotions and appropriate behavior, either one-to-one or with a small group. By looking after Sam and relating to him, learners will be encouraged to understand that other people have feelings just like they do. By controlling Sam's actions, learners can witness the consequences of inappropriate behavior. Sam has his own fears and dislikes just like real people. It is hoped learners will be prompted to generalize these experiences and develop consideration for others.

Do you have students who aren't talking? Teach Me to Talk is a language and speech stimulation program that enables students to focus on individual words. Many students need to hear a word repeated, up to 20, 30 or more times before they can produce it themselves. Teach Me to Talk provides this opportunity in four different learning activities. Vocabulary groups include animals, clothing, food, household items, transportation and words that begin with b, p and m.

Intellikeys Overlay CD sold separately.
